

Cassandra Bach CEO, Fertility Mindset Expert & Speaker

After 2 years of unsuccessful fertility treatments and despite having a 6 or 7% chance of conceiving, Cassandra overcame the odds and became a single mother by choice at the age of 45 giving birth to a beautiful baby girl named Sandy in 2013. Given her science background in biology she researched and applied many different alternative therapies during her quest to have a baby. She discovered that just like athletes performing at elite levels fertility starts with mindset. She has been researching and refining her proprietary program to help women make different lifestyle choices and knock out their fears to get and stay knocked up ever since.

Cassandra Bach is the Founder and CEO of Wanna Get Knocked Up, a Fertility Mindset Expert, Environmentalist, Speaker and Singer.

Holding a BSc. in Biology and a Post-Grad Certificate in Ecosystem Restoration she has 20 years-experience in environmental protection and is well versed in the impact of toxins in the environment and food supply and their impact on fertility. She was interviewed by CBC news while pregnant several times and they even made a cast of her pregnant belly on air. She is an authority on mindset and fertility and presents on a very emotionally charged topic in an informative and even entertaining manner.

Featured Presentations:

- » Becoming Fearless to Create the Family of Your Dreams
- » Knock out your Fears to Get and Stay Knocked Up!

Let Cassandra customize her presentations and tailor them to your event specifically.

As featured on:

Testimonial

"We were blessed to have Cassandra speak at 4 of our One Woman FEARLESS events during our Canadian Tour! Cassandra is a dynamic speaker with a powerful message that impacts everyone in the room!"

Sharla Brown, Founder One Woman